The Problem

An oil company based in Qatar looking to relocate 12 employees and their families to the UK, had run into mountains of bureaucratic red tape, and decided it was time to call in the experts, Clearview.

The Clearview Solution.

This was an unusually complex and involved task but, as always, we made it our business to completely understand the problem. We started by talking to the key stakeholders within the business, the assignees and their families so we could fully map their individual needs.

What this process showed was the requirement included dealing with home search and legal issues for both short and long term accommodation, setting up mobile phone and car hire contracts, finding the right education solution for children and cultural familiarisation for their parents to ease their move to a significantly different culture.

All the assignees were sympathetically and efficiently relocated to the right home in the right location. Throughout the process we provided the client with the reassurance of a single point of contact delivered all the necessary legal solutions and documentation in an accurate and timely manner. On the finance side we also tracked, authorised and paid all the assignees relocation expenses on behalf of the client.

The Outcome

The outcome of our cost-saving and effective intervention were delighted assignees and a satisfied client – so much so that they have since used us to relocate a further 70 global assignees to locations including Australia, the USA, Dubai, Abu Dhabi, Malaysia and India.
